

Transforming the way Commodities Trading Companies do Business

Aspect Enterprise Solutions is the leading global provider of multi-commodity trade, market data, risk and operations management solutions (ETRM/CTRM) who delivered Software-as-a-Service (SaaS) in the cloud. We profile the firm as we look to find out more about the innovative solutions the team delivers.

Established in 1999 and with more than 487 customers in 86 countries, Aspect has one of the fastest growing software solutions with rapid deployment, affordable subscriptions, and immediate ROI for all size companies. Its software supports multiple commodities and includes oil, petroleum products, metals, biofuels, coal and petrochemicals.

A forward-thinking company, it is Aspect's mission to be the 'go-to' vendor for multi-commodity trade and risk management software. Its technology has made the company the leading SaaS cloud software as it has been web-based since its launch and was the first of its kind in the industry. Crucial to the success of the company is the team's ability to provide a more secure solution, and this is a major advantage to clients. The firm's cloud computing software has higher reliability and security, and since costs are shared by multiple customers, cloud vendors can afford to purchase more powerful and expensive network security systems. This is critical as security of a position keeping system can cost millions.

Another advantage of Aspect's solutions includes the environmentally friendly nature of its products. Users of cloud software have a much lower carbon footprint, in comparison to their colleagues who are still using older client-server software.

Aspect's flagship product AspectCTRM is a full-featured E/CTRM suite for front, middle and back office with support for financial and physical trade activity. It is available in three editions: Lite, Standard and Enterprise, expanding in functionality according to the needs and budgets of clients.

Aspect is the only E/CTRM solutions provider with market data and analytics tools delivered with its trade and risk functions on the same platform, for convenient price uploads to CTRM. These factors are just some of the many reasons why AspectCTRM clients include the largest in the world, and also start-ups. Catering to the needs of a variety of clients, Aspect solutions are available on desktop, tablets and mobile devices.

Alongside its superior customer service and expert skillset, the firm has also cultivated an exceptional and professional internal culture. Due to it being the fastest growing CTRM commodity trading and risk management software company, it has been easier for the firm to attract the best staffing talent.
